Has life got you down? Don't know where to turn for help?

Well, I've got to tell you, friend, that the answers to your modern day woes are not in a book written by nomadic desert prophets thousands of years ago. What would make you think that a culture several millennia old could make any meaningful connections to your life? Rather than turning to a book of fiction why don't you get off your lazy butt and do something about your situation.

You are responsible for your situation. You are responsible for your actions. When something bad happens, it is not the Devil's fault. It is your failure. And in turn, when something good happens it is not God's mercy. It is your success! If you want to feel better about your life, if you want to have more confidence, if you want to be truly happy, then throw off the yoke of religion and believe in yourself. Believe in mankind and the general good of man.

When you see someone else downtrodden, what is praying for them going to do? It is really just wishful thinking. Reach out your hand and help! There is no magic invisible daddy in the sky that will right the wrongs. It is up to you. You are not an evil and worthless wretch who has no ability to change yourself or the world around you. Don't put your faith in the false hopes and ignored prayers of religion but believe in hope through humanity.

We are all members of this society and we can wield it through science and logic and reason to benefit all mankind. There are no damned. There is no eternal punishment for wrongs and no eternal reward for rights. There are effects and consequences for actions. If I steal, or kill, or harm my fellow man, I harm myself. I harm my community. There is no supernatural dictate that is needed to see that this is clear. It is obvious.

People are inherently good, not evil. The reason we have a society is that people are willing to work together to better their life. There is nothing supernatural about that. It is common sense. It can be seen all over the animal kingdom. It is nature. We evolved to be generally nice to other humans. Unfortunately the idea of universal power and a system of eternal reward and punishment often gets in the way.

After reading the Bible, many people are mystified as to why grown, otherwise intelligent adults would believe that it is the direct communication or the "inspired Word" of an all-powerful, all-knowing, all-good being. To many people, it seems absolutely incredible that any reasonable person could maintain this belief in the face of our current scientific knowledge and the contemporary understanding of history, religion and mythology. So I encourage you to pick up that little book that sits in every hotel room nightstand in America, and actually read it. But, read it with a skeptical mind as you would read ANY other book. Be true to yourself, maybe for the first time in your life, and see if this story of human suffering and desert wandering is the work of an omniscient supernatural universe creator or the collection of mythical writings about nothing more than an ancient tribe and their god stories.
